ABOUT THE EXHIBITION: Gloriously colored and exquisitely textured ethnic clothing from around the world will celebrate the vibrant multi-cultural nature of the University of Minnesota and greater Twin Cities communities. As a powerful symbol of cultural heritage, ethnic dress is a significant statement of identity and belonging.

The exhibition will feature 30 ensembles of ethnic dress and folk costume from Bhutan, India, Afghanistan, China, Turkey, Nigeria, Cameroon, Somalia, Ghana, Palestine, Egypt, Scotland, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Croatia, the Ukraine, Laos (Hmong), Mexico, Guatemala, and Native American (Ojibwe). Both men’s and women’s dress will be included. Visitors to the exhibition will gain an appreciation of how ethnic dress and folk costume continue to evolve and how they are used as a form of cultural expression and unification.

Exhibition themes:
- Ethnic clothing communicates continuity despite change of form
- European folk dress was influenced by 19th century nationalism and romanticism
- The Spanish conquest had significant impact on indigenous Latin American dress
- Varying interpretations of religious guidelines shape appropriate dress
- Design details can pinpoint places of origin or affiliation with a group.

These concepts will be communicated through objects rich with regional textile techniques and cultural symbols, accompanied by explanatory text panels and a written gallery guide.

Through a series of free programs, visitors will gain an appreciation of the evolution of cultural traditions and their importance in establishing connections between people. Cross-cultural discussions about immigrant experiences will increase awareness of the challenges faced by those who have, or will, mediate between group identity and social integration.
